

HONG KONG INSTITUTE
OF ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT ASSESSMENT

香港環境影響評估學會

HKIEIA Visit – Mai Po Nature Reserve

14 January 2017 (Saturday)

Photo credit: WWF-Hong Kong

Mai Po Nature Reserve is a haven for thousands of migratory birds during autumn and winter. The wetlands around the Mai Po marshes and Inner Deep Bay offer visitors a chance to experience Hong Kong's biodiversity first-hand.

This tour provides you with the very unique experience of walking on the floating boardwalk in the middle of a magnificent mangrove forest. Upon finishing the walk, you will get on the floating hide where you can enjoy the remarkable view of the Inner Deep Bay and gain probably the best bird-watching experience in Hong Kong, accompanied by experienced nature interpreters.

Free rental of binoculars

Date: 14 January 2017 (Saturday)
Time: 09:00 – 13:00
Meeting Point: 08:30 at Yuen Long MTR station near Exit G
Language: Cantonese
Fee: Free for HKIEIA members; $200 for non-members.

Number of participants is limited. Registration is accepted on a first-come-first-served basis, with preference for members. Successful applicants will be informed by email. Payment needs to be settled before the visit to confirm attendance.

Online registration at <https://goo.gl/forms/iZXMuNQzT1Ybkqlt1> by 16 December 2016.